THE YEAR OF MERCY

FOURTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

In a poetic and joyful way the prophet Isaiah calls upon the Israelites to rejoice and be glad, for they will come to know the joy and fulfillment of the promises of God. Prosperity, peace and comfort are the promises they shall see and come to know. The people can hope in the power of God to transform their mourning into joy, for God is the source of new life. In hope they await the reign of God.

In Jesus the reign of God was brought nearer to the people. Through his ministry of teaching, healing and exorcizing demons Jesus revealed God's power breaking into their world. Jesus also called others to the same ministry, enabling them to be heralds of the coming reign of God. Calling first the twelve disciples, Jesus then called seventy-two more to be disciples. Fast-forward, we too are called and empowered to be disciples of Jesus in the world today. Picture yourself as being called – you are his disciple, what do I do next?

Pastoral Associate

Dear Incarnation Parishioners,

I've had a phenomenal experience these past two years as a student at Incarnation Catholic School. I am not attending my last year and I will definitely never forget all the fantastic memories at this school. There is a large variety of classes to take that are not offered in other schools such as STEM, foreign languages, high school math classes and of course, Religion. During every class my teachers find a way to implant the knowledge of God and Jesus. The teachers don't only teach us, but they also want to know more about us. This is something that I certainly revel in about this parish; everyone is very Christ-Like.

There have also been many incredible opportunities that make us closer as one, such as our 8th grade trip to Washington D.C. We learned a mammoth amount about our country. Throughout the trip we would pray every morning and say the pledge of allegiance. We also came together as a class. Everyone socialized with each other and no one was excluded.

Another opportunity the parish and school have provided is the chance to be confirmed. I am very excited for this time and I enjoy learning about the word of God. During this process we went to a retreat which made me think differently about my religion and come closer to our God. Incarnation has taught me to spread the good news of the Lord.

I am so blessed for attending Incarnation Catholic School. Thank you for making this possible.
